

LEGISLATIVE VOTERS LEAGUE ENDORSES ASSEMBLY CANDIDATES

Lyons, McDonough, Carroll Get Okay of League

Representatives Richard J. Lyons and Lee McDonough should be re-elected, and William M. Carroll, Woodstock attorney, also a Republican candidate for the Illinois General Assembly, is better qualified for legislative work than his Democratic opponent, Thomas A. Bolger, according to endorsements announced by the Illinois Legislative Voters League.

For years the League has followed the records of assemblymen at Springfield and the recommendations of the group carry much weight with voters, as the League is non-partisan and its reports are unbiased, dealing solely with the merits of the candidates for legislative work.

The League's report follows:
Eighth District (McHenry, Boone and Lake Counties) HOUSE—Richard J. Lyons (Rep.) of Mundelein, real estate; finishing first term, in which he gave close attention to legislative duties and made outstanding good record. Lee McDonough (Rep.) of Waukegan, plumbing and heating contractor; substantial, hard working member; made good first term record. William M. Carroll (Rep.) of Woodstock, lawyer; served creditably as assistant state's attorney for McHenry county for seven years; well equipped for legislative service. Thomas A. Bolger (Dem.) of McHenry; farmer; filled several local offices creditably; stands well in community.

Lyons and McDonough deserve reelection because of their records, and Carroll appears better qualified for legislative work than the fourth candidate the report read.

LEGION COMMITTEES ARE APPOINTED

Com. S. M. Wallace Names
Horan and Webb Chairmen of Groups

Appointment of two important committees to serve for the year was one of the first official acts of Commander S. M. Wallace of the local post at the first meeting presided over by the newly elected chief last Thursday night.

The ways and means committee is headed by John L. Horan past commander, and the members serving on this committee with Mr. Horan are Dr. G. W. Jensen, Roy Graves, and Russell Meade. The entertainment committee consists of Raymond Webb, chairman, Otto S. Kless, Geo. Garland and Harry Messinger.

Clarence Shultz, chairman of the membership committee, reports that he has over thirty members paid up so far. One of the big things on the program as the year nears its close is to have all old members in and paid up for a good start in the 1931 membership drive, Legion men stated.

Urge Women to Attend Voters Meeting Tuesday

A meeting for the women voters of Antioch township will be held at the grade school building here Tuesday evening, October 23, at 7:30 o'clock. Sample ballots may be had at this meeting and information regarding the marking of ballots will be given. It will be an open meeting and any woman will have an opportunity to speak if she desires.

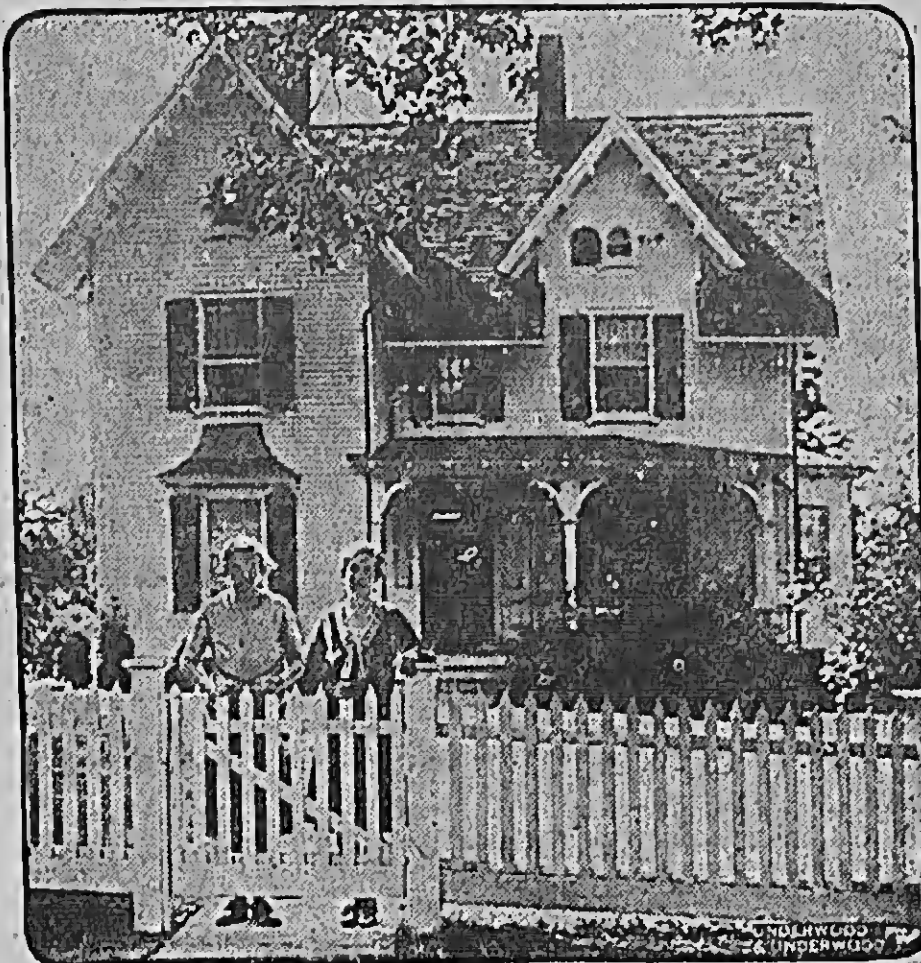

The committee in charge hopes to have Prin. W. C. Petty, candidate for county superintendent of schools, present for at least a part of the meeting.

Every woman in Antioch and vicinity is urged to be present regardless of the candidates she is supporting. The meeting is to be a general get-together for all women and is expected to be of great aid to all in intelligently employing their voting privilege on November 4.

A similar G. O. P. meeting was held Tuesday evening, Oct. 21, at which several local speakers, including W. C. Petty spoke. G. G. Reed also spoke on the subject, "Women on Juries."

Several members of the Royal Neighbors attended the County Convention at Grayslake yesterday.

TIRED BUSINESS MEN PEP UP FOR DEAR "AUNT LUCIA"

Home Talent Play Given at
H. S. Tonight—Has 100
Characters

The play, "Aunt Lucia," sponsored by the Epworth League, will be presented at the High School auditorium tonight and tomorrow night. The cast proper includes a number of talented local people; over a hundred will be seen in the entire show. Judging from reports coming from those who attended the dress rehearsal last night, the play will be a huge success, and side-splittingly funny. It is a burlesque comedy of college life, and deals particularly with the homecoming at Bala Bala college. The principal character, Aunt Lucia, is taken by Gerald G. Reed, who takes comedian parts very successfully.

There will be other attractions besides the play proper in the form of Glee Clubs and Choruses, composed of some of Antioch's proudest business men. The play will be opened by a Baby Pageant, including one hundred small children.

SEEK VAMP DRIVER WHO CAUSED ACCIDENT

Woman Is Injured When B.
Fields' Car Is Forced From Road

Identity of the driver of a blue coupe who figured in an accident at the Spafford and Lake street intersection here at 7:00 o'clock Saturday night when Mrs. Frank Safranek, of Chicago, sister of Mrs. Frank Mastas, was badly injured, remains a mystery in spite of the efforts of local authorities to locate the car and driver who failed to stop at the intersection before driving on to Lake street.

Mrs. Safranek was found in a semi-conscious condition on the sidewalk not far from the home of her sister by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nelson who brought her to Dr. Warriner's office. While officers were seeking the driver responsible for the accident Bernice Fields of Antioch, reported that his car had been forced over the sidewalk from the home of her sister by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nelson who brought her to Dr. Warriner's office. While officers were seeking the driver responsible for the accident Bernice Fields of Antioch, reported that his car had been forced over the sidewalk from the home of her sister by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nelson who brought her to Dr. Warriner's office.

Mrs. Safranek was taken to the Lake county hospital in Waukegan, but was released and brought to the home of her sister here shortly afterward when it was discovered her injuries were not serious. Although badly bruised, she is recovering rapidly, it was reported today.

Dured To Address Antioch Voters

A meeting of all the voters in the township will be held Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Methodist church. As the solving of the Prohibition question is one of the outstanding issues of this election, Mr. Dured of Lake Forest has been secured to speak at that time. The public is cordially urged to attend.

PETTY ADDRESSES VOTERS LEAGUE AT HIGHLAND PARK

Prin. W. C. Petty, Republican candidate for county superintendent of schools, was among the speakers who addressed the Women Voters League at Highland Park Monday night.

Local Boys Seek Basketball Berths at Marquette This Year

Announcement by Coach Chandler was made last week that the initial basketball practice at the University will be held Oct. 15.

It will be of local interest to know that "Whitey" Budrinas, the big boy from Waukegan, will be prominent among the varsity candidates. Whitey won his letter last year and his continual improvement almost assures him of a regular berth.

Freshmen will report a week later. Dorr Cremin and Jack Horenberger, stars of the Northwest conference last year, will be among the first to answer the call. They have been working out occasionally and appear to be in for a big year.

Fox Lake Hunters' Sport Almost Ends In Drowning Tragedy

The storm which overtook five duck and mudhen hunters at Fox Lake Friday nearly caused their deaths as well as the drownings of rescuers. The squall caused the boat of three Chicagoans hunting in Columbia Bay to overturn. Charles Bejeck and Carl Huhn of Ingleside went to the rescue but the frantic hunters overturned their light skiffs and all five were struggling in the water.

Arthur Franzen and Geo. Keeth, Fox Lake, and Fred Hamlin of Lake Villa rushed to the aid of the men, in time to save them; Huhn had been on the point of drowning.

WAUKEGAN WOMAN MADE STATE PRESIDENT OF REBEKAHS

Mrs. Grace F. Baislaw of Waukegan was elected president of the Rebekah State Assembly at the annual convention held at Springfield yesterday.

Mrs. Baislaw was vice-president during the past year and has been active in club work for many years.

Walter Scott and Rudolph Strometz left Monday morning on a vacation trip to Cleveland, Ohio, and other points East. They expect to be gone for a week of ten days.

"BUGS" MORAN, GANG LEADER, IS SEIZED AT BLUFF LAKE RESORT

Faces Vagrancy and Gun-Toting Charges in Chicago

SEEKS CHANGE OF VENUE

George (Bugs) Moran, alleged public enemy and nearest rival to Al (Scarface) Capone for Chicago gangland leadership, is in custody of Chicago authorities, charged with vagrancy and gun-toting.

Moran who has been sought by authorities for questioning since the Lingle and Zuta murder investigations, was captured early Tuesday at the Cassidy resort, four miles southwest of Antioch by George Hargrave and Constable George Strled, when operatives from the office of State's Attorney A. V. Smith raided the place. Moran was occupying a front bedroom when the officers entered and made the arrest. Moran surrendered without offering resistance.

Released on Bond

After having appeared in two courts to face charges brought by the prosecutor, the alleged gangster was released at noon Tuesday. He gave a bail of $5,000 before County Judge Perry L. Persons on an information charging him with carrying concealed weapons, and $5,000 before Justice Harry Tallott on charges of vagrancy.

Taken to Chicago

Immediately after the hearings in Waukegan and the gangster's release Chicago police detectives from the office of Chief Investigator Pat Roche took Moran to Chicago to face vagrancy charges there and for questioning regarding the murders of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, and Jack Zuta vice monger.

Wednesday Moran appeared before Municipal Judge John Lyle in Chicago and made a motion for a change (Continued on page 4)

STRATTON STARTS CAMPAIGN TO DECREASE AUTO DEATH TOLL

Investigators to Advise School Children of Highway Hazards

Springfield, Ill., October 23.—Secretary of State William J. Stratton has inaugurated a campaign to decrease the toll of death in automobile accidents among the school children of the state.

In a letter to automobile investigators under his direction he has ordered them to take the message of safety into the schools of the state.

Working through county and city superintendents of schools the investigators will appear before the school children and advise them of the hazards of the highways.

The investigators, schooled in the causes of motor vehicle accidents and acquainted with the streets and highways over which the children travel on their way to and from school and while at play, will bring expert advice to the children as to ways and means of escaping injury and possible death under the wheels of automobiles.

The investigators also were instructed to co-operate with other agencies and make every possible effort to secure better observance of the laws of the road.

In reiterating his insistence for better observance of the road laws, Mr. Stratton said:

"Recent statistics of the American Automobile Association disclose that 31,500 persons lost their lives in the United States last year as the result of motor vehicle accidents. That is an average of one person killed every 17 minutes and is an increase of 3,500 over the previous twelve months.

"Of the 31,500 deaths in the country, Illinois contributed 2,017 or one to each 3,000 citizens.

"Inasmuch as the saturation point for the purchase of automobile still seems a long way off we may expect an increasing number of motor vehicle fatalities unless we compel stricter enforcement of the road laws.

"With this in mind I am instructing the automobile investigators to co-operate with all law enforcing agencies toward that end."

Uncertainty is the interesting feature of politics. Heretofore, in the off years things have been running about true to form, that is, the Republican candidates in the G. O. P. communities have been swept into office with very little fear of defeat, and the Democratic office-seekers have fared just as well in the Democratic strongholds.

This year presents a very different aspect. Party bolters threaten to upset the depo all over the country and in Illinois and Lake county in particular.

Party bolters were first called "mugwumps" in 1884, the term being applied to members of the Republican party who refused to support the party nominee. The word comes from Algonquin Indian language. It is still used to designate those who are independent in politics or otherwise.

"A mugwump" is a person educated beyond his intelligence," Horace Porter said in political speech during the presidential campaign between Cleveland and Blaine in 1884.

A Wisconsin newspaper carries the slogan, "The Mugwumps are always on the safe side," probably meaning that the mugwump changed his politics at will in order to be with the winning candidates at each election.

In Illinois and in the eighth senatorial district Republicans are in the majority, nevertheless, it is going to take a lot of intelligent voting to elect the Republican nominee for the U. S. senate and put across the three Republican candidates for the Illinois general assembly, Lyons, McDonough, and Carroll, over Thomas A. Bolger, the Democratic nominee, who will have the advantage of having three votes with every Democratic ballot cast on November 4.

The average newspaper's daily mail contains enough publicity matter "for immediate release" to clutter up scores of columns of valuable space. Various political regimes want the newspapers to tell the waiting world how good they are, (so the candidates can be elected next time), while those not in power waste tons and tons of paper making promises to the voters, and the various bureaus, clubs and even individuals will grant the newspapers the great privilege of carrying their message to the public, (and there is absolutely no charge for the copy, it is invariably free and "for immediate release.")

One of the peculiar requests received this week comes from the federal Bureau of Prisons in the Department of Justice announcing that it will receive offers for the donation of a 500 acre tract of land on which to erect a hospital for criminal insane and other defective delinquents. This land is wanted in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa or Missouri. Must be in healthful locality, on a main line of transportation and where a plentiful water supply can be developed.

So if anyone around here is weary of paying taxes on a nice, well-located 500 acre tract that could be turned over to criminal nuts, make your offer by addressing the Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., and do it before November 15.

There you are, Mr. Bureau—the News has given you the desired publicity; however, it is not believed that advertising of this kind will produce results, even in the Antioch News.

ANTIOCH BOYS ATTEND MARQUETTE

Marquette University, although only fifty miles from Antioch is hardly known; however, it is one of the leading universities of the middle west. Marquette rates high in scholastic standing and competes with the strongest teams in athletic activities. Students who have matriculated from this district and are attending school are: Dorr Cremin, freshman in college of Business Administration; Eugene Sheehan sophomore in college of Journalism and Jack Horenberger, Libertyville, in college of Business Administration. Joe Hucker attended the two previous years but has not returned this year.

Mrs. T. J. Tronson was a guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Selma Miller at Glen Ellyn, Ill., Saturday.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL BE HEARD ON IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

Seven Thousand Dollars
Needed for Sewage Disposal Plant

PUBLIC HEARING TUESDAY NIGHT

Antioch property owners and taxpayers will be heard at the village hall Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock when the proposition of authorizing an estimated expenditure of $7,014.24 for the repair of the sewage purification plant, the building of a bridge, the addition of land, and other improvements and the payment of a deficiency in sewer funds for bonds outstanding and interest, all to be paid by special assessment upon the property benefited thereby, comes up for public hearing.

Present Plant Inadequate
The sewage disposal plant has long been inadequate. State inspectors from the Illinois sanitary department advised immediate repair of the plant to meet the requirements of law.

The biggest items in the itemized estimate which totals more than $7,000, are the amounts named for placing 500 cubic yards of sand on the filter beds, $1200, and the amount required to pay outstanding bonds, interest and maintenance $1,770.

If, after the hearing, it is deemed desirable the Board of Local Improvements will adopt a resolution therefor and prepare and submit an ordinance authorizing the improvement.

BEAN HILL RESIDENT PASSES AWAY MONDAY

Mrs. Henry Hunter Dies
After Long Illness;
Funeral Today

Mrs. Henry Hunter, 65, a life-long resident in the vicinity of Antioch, passed away Monday morning after an illness extending over many months.

Mrs. Hunter, nee Stella M. Colegrove, was born November 15th, 1864, on the Colegrove farm east of Antioch. Her early life was spent there, until on June 15th, 1891, she was married to Henry Hunter, also of Antioch. After living ten years in Trevor, they moved to a farm east of Antioch, where they lived until her death.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Birdella, and one grandchild besides many other relatives and friends. One son, Alvin, died in 1918, at the age of 18 years.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1:30 at the house, and at 2:00 at the Antioch Methodist church. Interment will be in the Hillside cemetery.

Hallowe'en Costume Dance To Be Given At St. Peter's Hall

One is never positive of anything, it is said; not even of waking up in the morning or of being in love for more than a week with the same person. But here's something one wouldn't attempt to swear to—who will be his many dancing partners at the Costume Dance held at St. Peter's hall on Hallowe'en night, October 31st.

The dance is being sponsored by the Young Ladies and members of the Dramatic club of St. Peter's church. Their entertainment committee has secured Wightman's Orchestra to play, and the various sub-committees are successfully completing all the details in their divisions.

Five prizes will be awarded to those clad in the best and most original costumes.

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Beebe, returned to their home here today from Walker, Minn., where they had been on a hunting and fishing trip for the last several weeks.

Mrs. H. J. Began was a Chicago visitor yesterday.

Three Unusual Vegetable Recipes

By ETIENNE ALLIO, Chef, Hotel New Yorker, New York City

MANY housewives have been preparing their vegetable dishes in the same way for so many years that it seems to them almost like sacrilege to suggest that the same vegetables prepared in different ways might be heartily welcomed by the family as delightful variations from the ordinary routine.

While the family may have been well trained to eat the dishes offered them without comment unless it is a favorable one, the wise housewife will never, while so many new recipes are readily available, allow herself to run the danger of a sudden family revolt.

natural pride in her skill in the culinary art will lead her to seek variety, both for the sake of her own reputation and the pleasure her family will take in the appetizing results of her well planned meals.

Spinach au Gratin—Clean, wash and stem two quarts of spinach. Drain and press through colander. Add one tablespoon butter, one and a half cups fairly thick white sauce, one-half teaspoon salt, and one-half teaspoon sugar. Mix thoroughly and place in buttered glass baking dish. Sprinkle with two-thirds cup grated cheese and bake in hot oven for twenty minutes.

Onions Arragonaise—Melt one-third cup butter in a saucepan. Add two cups peeled, small onions, pressing down firmly. Sprinkle over top one scant teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, and one-fourth teaspoon sugar. Shake until seasonings are well distributed. Add enough chicken stock to cover. Cover saucepan and simmer until onions are tender. Remove cover and boil rapidly until liquid is reduced to about one-fourth. Butter squares of toast, sprinkle cheese over them, then pour over them the onions. Place in hot oven to brown.

Parasol and Tomato Scallop—Slice and saute in one tablespoon butter, one medium-size onion. When golden brown, add two cups stewed tomatoes, one and a half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two or three cloves, pinch of cayenne, and one teaspoon sugar. Simmer until smooth. Have ready three cups of sliced, cooked parasols. Grease a shallow baking dish and place in it a layer of the parasols. Add a layer of tomato, then a layer of parasols, continuing this until all the ingredients are used, being sure that a layer of parasols is on top. Sprinkle with three tablespoons grated cheese mixed with one-fourth cup bread crumbs. Brown in hot oven.

ANTIOCH'S COUNTRY FAIR IS PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS

ers' Association from Lake County competed for honors with their calves, pigs and sheep. Lloyd Barnstable of Lake Villa, won the grand championship with his Guernsey senior heifer. Howard Schneider, also of Lake Villa, won the grand championship with his Poland in the Swine Division, and Chas. Dooley of Gurnee, took the championship in the Sheep classes.

The commercial exhibits were unusually large this year, occupying over 200 frontage feet. They were attractively housed in neat booths furnished by the Central States Exposition company of Kenosha, Wis.

Splendid Response from Schools
 The schools of Lake county that had displays, numbered fifteen, and their displays were a credit to the fair association, for their attractiveness appealed to the many visitors. The Educational Department was under the supervision of W. C. Petty, who expressed himself as being much pleased with the number of schools entering exhibits and the high type of work displayed. The winners are listed in order:

One Room Schools—
 Hickory 2.00
 Oakland 2.00
 Emmons 2.00
 Stearns 2.00
 Stafford 2.00
 Nest Newport Grubb 2.00
 More than One Room Schools—
 Gurnee 2.00
 Grayslake 2.00
 Antioch 2.00
 Lake Villa 2.00
 Allendale 2.00
 Fox Lake 2.00

High Schools—
 Antioch 2.00
 Warren 2.00
 R. S. Hienfeldt, Supt. of Kenosha county schools, who judged the exhibits, stressed the following things in choosing the winners: originality, number of grades represented, variety of exhibits, especially in their every-day work, and attractiveness.

For these reasons Hickory was placed first, and Oakland and Emmons tied, the latter two having less variety than Hickory. The judge remarked that Grubb, although not in a position to compete with the larger schools, because of its few pupils, displayed some excellent work.

Gurnee was given first in the more than one room schools because of the above requirements, and for the fine record work and character development indicated. Antioch was merited second for its originality and Grayslake for its attractiveness.

Both High schools displayed very fine work, Antioch's manual training exhibits and Warren's representation of rural life being outstanding.

Allendale Band Plays

A very fine concert by the Allendale Farm boys' band was the main attraction at the fair grounds Friday night. Known throughout northern Illinois as one of the finest juvenile musical organizations, the band lived up to their reputation here Friday night, playing many difficult classical selections that would do credit to older and more seasoned musicians. The concert was well received, and the boys got a good hand for their efforts to please.

Candidates Attend

The fair was not without its political high-lights, although no political speakers were included on the program. Nevertheless, the fair crowd was honored by a visit by prominent state and county candidates Friday when the Republican delegation making the rounds of Lake county called at the grounds where several speeches were made.

Saturday night the Democrats held away for a brief spell while James Welch, former Lake county prosecutor, told voters why he deserted the Republican party to join the ranks of the Democrats. Until recently Attorney Welch was a candidate for circuit judge but withdrew from the contest when it was learned he was late in filing his petition and his name would have to be written in on the ballot by the voters.

Fair Management Hopeful

It is the opinion of many who are in close touch with the workings of the Antioch-Lake Villa Poultry and Country Fair association that next year it will be necessary to find larger facilities or use large tents to house the exhibits.

There was splendid co-operation on the part of the several superintendents and the exhibitors, according to President Harold D. Minto and Secretary C. L. Kuttel, and all officials feel very grateful to the public for the splendid support given them in their effort to make the first community fair the success it proved to be.

Lyons, McDonough, Carroll Get Okay of League

Representatives Richard J. Lyons and Lee McDonough should be re-elected, and William M. Carroll, Woodstock attorney also a Republican candidate for the Illinois General Assembly, is better qualified for legislative work than his Democratic opponent, Thomas A. Bolger, according to endorsements announced by the Illinois Legislative Voters League.

For years the League has followed the records of assemblymen at Springfield and the recommendations of the group carry much weight with voters, as the League is non-partisan and its reports are unbiased, dealing solely with the merits of the candidates for legislative work.

The League's report follows:

Eighth District
(McHenry, Boone and Lake Counties)
HOUSE—Richard J. Lyons (Rep.) of Mundelein, real estate; finishing first term, in which he gave close attention to legislative duties and made outstanding good record. Lee McDonough (Rep.) of Waukegan, plumbing and heating contractor; substantial, hard working member; made good first term record. William M. Carroll (Rep.) of Woodstock, lawyer; served creditably as assistant state's attorney for McHenry county for seven years; well equipped for legislative service. Thomas A. Bolger (Dem.) of McHenry; farmer; filled several local offices creditably; stands well in community.

Lyons and McDonough deserve reelection because of their records, and Carroll appears better qualified for legislative work than the fourth candidate the report read.

LEGION COMMITTEES ARE APPOINTED

Com. S. M. Walence Names Horan and Webb Chairmen of Groups

Appointment of two important committees to serve for the year was one of the first official acts of Commander S. M. Walence of the local post at the first meeting, presided over by the newly elected chief last Thursday night.

The ways and means committee is headed by John L. Horan past commander, and the members serving on this committee with Mr. Horan are Dr. G. W. Jensen, Roy Graves, and Russell Moade. The entertainment committee consists of Raymond Webb, chairman, Otto S. Klase, Geo. Garland and Harry Messing.

Clarence Shultz, chairman of the membership committee, reports that he has over thirty members paid up so far. One of the big things on the program as the year nears its close is to have all old members in and paid up for a good start in the 1931 membership drive, Legion men stated.

Urge Women to Attend Voters Meeting Tuesday

A meeting for the women voters of Antioch township will be held at the grade school building here Tuesday evening, October 23, at 7:30 o'clock. Sample ballots may be had at this meeting, and information regarding the marking of ballots will be given. It will be an open meeting and any woman will have an opportunity to speak if she desires.

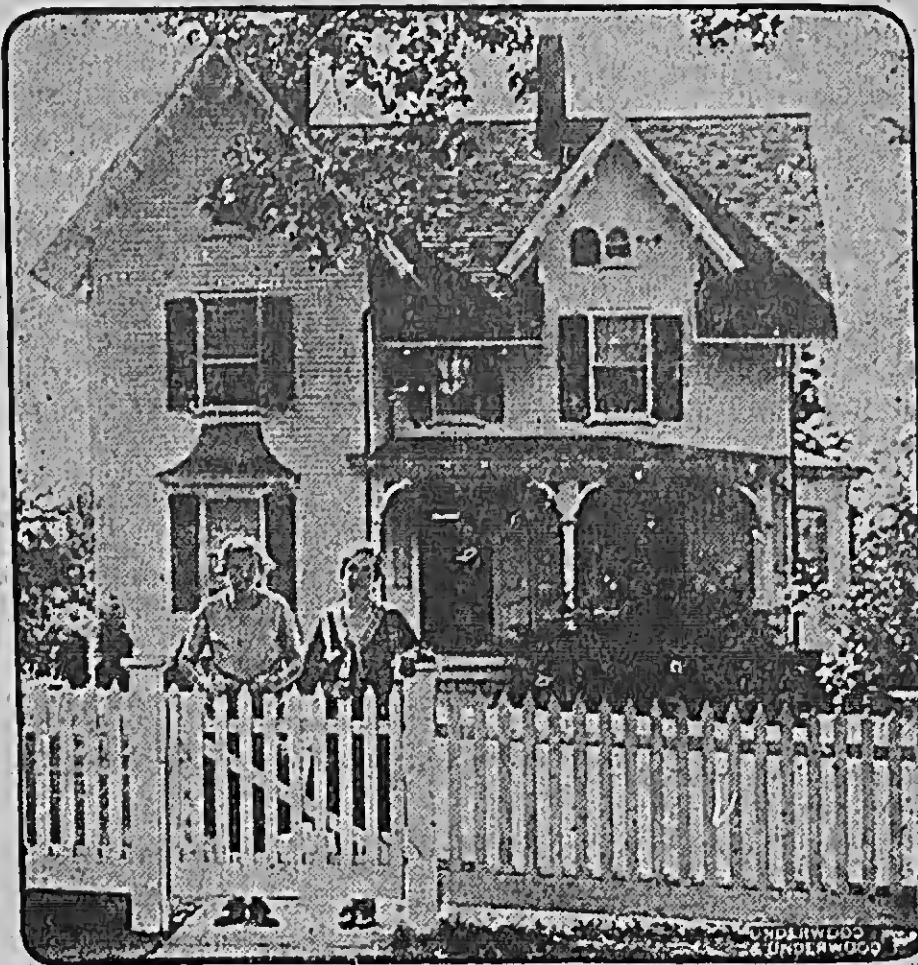

The committee in charge hopes to have Prin. W. C. Petty, candidate for county superintendent of schools, present for at least a part of the meeting.

Every woman in Antioch and vicinity is urged to be present regardless of the candidates she is supporting. The meeting is to be a general get-together for all women and is expected to be of great aid to all in intelligently employing their voting privilege on November 4.

A similar G. O. P. meeting was held Tuesday evening, Oct. 21, at which several local speakers, including W. C. Petty spoke. G. G. Reed also spoke on the subject, "Women on Juries."

Several members of the Royal Neighbors attended the County Convention at Grayslake yesterday.

TIRED BUSINESS MEN PEP UP FOR DEAR "AUNT LUCIA"

Home Talent Play Given at H. S. Tonight—Has 100 Characters

The play, "Aunt Lucia," sponsored by the Epworth League, will be presented at the High School auditorium tonight and tomorrow night. The cast proper includes a number of talented local people; over a hundred will be seen in the entire show. Judging from reports coming from those who attended the dress-rehearsal last night, the play will be a huge success, and side-splittingly funny. It is a burlesque comedy of college life, and deals particularly with the homecoming at Bula Bula college. The principal character, Aunt Lucia, is taken by Gerald G. Reed, who takes comedian parts very successfully.

There will be other attractions besides the play proper in the form of Glee Clubs and Chorus, composed of some of Antioch's proudest business men. The play will be opened by a Baby Pageant, including one hundred small children.

SEEK VAMP DRIVER WHO CAUSED ACCIDENT

Woman Is Injured When B. Fields' Car Is Forced From Road

Identity of the driver of a blue coupe who figured in an accident at the Spafford and Lake street intersection here at 7:00 o'clock Saturday night when Mrs. Frank Safranek, of Chicago, sister of Mrs. Frank Mastne, was badly injured, remains a mystery in spite of the efforts of local authorities to locate the car and driver who failed to stop at the intersection before driving on to Lake street.

Mrs. Safranek was found in a semi-conscious condition on the sidewalk not far from the home of her sister by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nelson who brought her to Dr. Warriner's office. While officers were seeking the driver responsible for the accident Bernice Fields of Antioch, reported that her car had been forced over the sidewalk after having been hit by a car coming from Spafford street. He did not know, he said, that his car had struck Mrs. Safranek, not seeing her in the darkness and watching the car that had caused the mishap. At the time he believed that two blown tires and a crashed fender to be the extent of the damage, he said.

Mrs. Safranek was taken to the Lake county hospital in Waukegan, but was released and brought to the home of her sister here shortly afterward when it was discovered her injuries were not serious. Although badly bruised, she is recovering rapidly, it was reported today.

Dured To Address Antioch Voters

A meeting of all the voters in the township will be held Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Methodist church. As the solving of the prohibition question is one of the outstanding issues of this election, Mr. Dured of Lake Forest, has been secured to speak at that time. The public is cordially urged to attend.

Local Boys Seek Basketball Berths at Marquette This Year

Announcement by Coach Chandler was made last week that the initial basketball practice at the University will be held Oct. 15.

It will be of local interest to know that "Whitey" Budrunas, the big boy from Waukegan, will be prominent among the varsity candidates. Whitey won his letter last year and his continual improvement almost assures him of a regular berth.

Freshmen will report a week later. Dorris Cronin and Jack Horenberger, stars of the Northwest conference last year, will be among the first to answer the call. They have been working out occasionally and appear to be in for a big year.

Fox Lake Hunters' Sport Almost Ends In Drowning Tragedy

The storm which overtook five duck and mudhen hunters at Fox Lake Friday nearly caused their deaths as well as the drownings of rescuers. The squall caused the boat of three Chicagoans hunting in Columbia Bay to overturn. Charles Bejock and Carl Huhn of Ingleside went to the rescue but the frantic hunters overturned their light skiffs and all five were struggling in the water.

Arthur Frauzen and Geo. Koeth, Fox Lake, and Fred Hamilton of Lake Villa rushed to the aid of the men, in time to save them; Huhn had been on the point of drowning.

"BUGS" MORAN, GANG LEADER, IS SEIZED AT BLUFF LAKE RESORT

Faces Vagrancy and Gun-Toting Charges in Chicago

SEEKS CHANGE OF VENUE

George (Bugs) Moran, alleged public enemy and nearest rival to Al (Scarface) Capone for Chicago gangland leadership, is in custody of Chicago authorities, charged with vagrancy and gun-toting.

Moran who has been sought by authorities for questioning since the Lingle and Zuta murder investigations, was captured early Tuesday at the Cassidy resort, four miles southwest of Antioch by George Hargrave and Constable George Stried, who operatives from the office of State's Attorney A. V. Smith raided the place. Moran was occupying a front bedroom when the officers entered and made the arrest. Moran surrendered without offering resistance.

Released on Bond
After having appeared in two courts to face charges brought by the prosecutor, the alleged gangster was released at noon Tuesday. He gave a bail of $5,000 before County Judge Perry L. Persons on an information charging him with carrying concealed weapons, and $5,000 before Justice Harry Talbot on charges of vagrancy.

Taken to Chicago
Immediately after the hearings in Waukegan and the gangster's release Chicago police detectives from the office of Chief Investigator Pat Roche took Moran to Chicago to face vagrancy charges there and for questioning regarding the murders of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, and Jack Zuta vice monger.

Wednesday Moran appeared before Municipal Judge John Lyle in Chicago and made a motion for a change (Continued on page 4)

STRATTON STARTS CAMPAIGN TO DECREASE AUTO DEATH TOLL

Investigators to Advise School Children of Highway Hazards

Springfield, Ill., October 23.—Secretary of State William J. Stratton has inaugurated a campaign to decrease the toll of death in automobile accidents among the school children of the state.

In a letter to automobile investigators under his direction he has ordered them to take the message of safety into the schools of the state.

Working through county and city superintendents of schools the investigators will appear before the school children and advise them of the hazards of the highways.

The investigators, schooled in the causes of motor vehicle accidents and acquainted with the streets and highways over which the children travel on their way to and from school and while at play, will bring expert advice to the children as to ways and means of escaping injury and possible death under the wheels of automobiles.

The investigators also were instructed to co-operate with other agencies and make every possible effort to secure better observance of the laws of the road.

In reiterating his insistence for better observance of the road laws, Mr. Stratton said:

"Recent statistics of the American Automobile Association disclose that 31,500 persons lost their lives in the United States last year as the result of motor vehicle accidents. That is an average of one person killed every 17 minutes and is an increase of 3,500 over the previous twelve months.

"Of the 31,500 deaths in the country, Illinois contributed 2,017 or one to each 3,000 citizens.

"Inasmuch as the saturation point for the purchase of automobile still seems a long way off we may expect an increasing number of motor vehicle fatalities unless we compel stricter enforcement of the road laws.

"With this in mind I am instructing the automobile investigators to co-operate with all law enforcing agencies toward that end."

Old Eagle Eye Says--

Uncertainty is the interesting feature of politics. Heretofore, in the off years things have been running about true to form, that is, the Republican candidates in the G. O. P. communities have been swept into office with very little fear of defeat, and the Democratic office-seekers have fared just as well in the Democratic strongholds.

This year presents a very different aspect. Party bolters threaten to upset the dope all over the country and in Illinois and Lake county in particular.

Party bolters were first called "mugwumps" in 1854, the term being applied to members of the Republican party who refused to support the party nominee. The word comes from Algonquin Indian language. It is still used to designate those who are independent in politics or otherwise.

"A mugwump" is a person educated beyond his intelligence," Horace Porter said in political speech during the presidential campaign between Cleveland and Blaine in 1884.

A Wisconsin newspaper carries the slogan, "The Mugwumps are always on the safe side," probably meaning that the mugwump changed his politics at will in order to be with the winning candidates at each election.

In Illinois and in the eighth senatorial district Republicans are in the majority, nevertheless, it is going to take a lot of intelligent voting to elect the Republican nominee for the U. S. senate and put across the three Republican candidates for the Illinois general assembly, Lyons, McDonough, and Carroll, over Thomas A. Bolger, the Democratic nominee, who will have the advantage of having three votes with every Democratic ballot cast on November 4.

The average newspaper's daily mail contains enough publicity matter "for immediate release" to clutter up scores of columns of valuable space. Various political regimes want the newspapers to tell the waiting world how good they are, (so the candidates can be elected next time,) while those not in power waste tons and tons of paper making promises to the voters, and the various bureaus, clubs and even individuals will grant the newspapers the great privilege of carrying their message to the public, (and there is absolutely no charge for the copy, it is invariably free and "for immediate release.")

One of the peculiar requests received this week comes from the federal Bureau of Prisons in the Department of Justice announcing that it will receive offers for the donation of a 500 acre tract of land on which to erect a hospital for criminal insane and other defective delinquents. This land is wanted in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa or Missouri. Must be in healthful locality, on a main line of transportation and where a plentiful water supply can be developed.

So if anyone around here is weary of paying taxes on a nice, well-located 500 acre tract that could be turned over to criminal nuts, make your offer by addressing the Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., and do it before November 15.

There you are, Mr. Bureau—the News has given you the desired publicity; however, it is not believed that advertising of this kind will produce results, even in the Antioch News.

ANTIOCH BOYS ATTEND MARQUETTE

Marquette University, although only fifty miles from Antioch is hardly known; however, it is one of the leading universities at the middle west. Marquette rates high in scholastic standing and competes with the strongest teams in athletic activities. Students who have matriculated from this district and are attending school are: Dorris Cronin, freshman in college of Business Administration; Eugene Sheehan sophomore in college of Journalism and Jack Horenberger, Libertyville, in college of Business Administration. Joe Hacker attended the two previous years but has not returned this year.

Mrs. T. J. Tronson was a guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Selma Miller at Glen Ellyn, Ill., Saturday.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL BE HEARD ON IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

Seven Thousand Dollars Needed for Sewage Disposal Plant

PUBLIC HEARING TUESDAY NIGHT

Antioch property owners and taxpayers will be heard at the village hall Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock when the proposition of authorizing an estimated expenditure of $7,014.24 for the repair of the sewage purification plant, the building of a bridge, the addition of land, and other improvements and the payment of a deficiency in sewer funds for bonds outstanding and interest, all to be paid by special assessment upon the property benefited thereby, comes up for public hearing.

Present Plant Inadequate
The sewage disposal plant has long been inadequate. State inspectors from the Illinois sanitary department advised immediate repair of the plant to meet the requirements of law.

The biggest items in the itemized estimate which totals more than $7,000, are the amounts named for placing 500 cubic yards of sand on the filter beds, $1200, and the amount required to pay outstanding bonds, interest and maintenance $1770. If, after the hearing, it is deemed desirable the Board of Local Improvements will adopt a resolution therefor and prepare and submit an ordinance authorizing the improvement.

BEAN HILL RESIDENT PASSES AWAY MONDAY

Mrs. Henry Hunter Dies After Long Illness; Funeral Today

Mrs. Henry Hunter, 65, a life-long resident in the vicinity of Antioch, passed away Monday morning after an illness extending over many months.

Mrs. Hunter, nee Stella M. Colegrave, was born November 15th, 1864, on the Colegrave farm east of Antioch. Her early life was spent there, until on June 15th, 1891, she was married to Henry Hunter, also of Antioch. After living ten years in Trevor, they moved to a farm east of Antioch, where they lived until her death.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Birdella, and one grandchild besides many other relatives and friends. One son, Alvin, died in 1918, at the age of 18 years.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1:30 at the house, and at 2:00 at the Antioch Methodist church. Interment will be in the Hillside cemetery.

Hallowe'en Costume Dance To Be Given At St. Peter's Hall

One is never positive of anything, it is said; not even of waking up in the morning or of being in love for more than a week with the same person. But here's something one wouldn't attempt to swear to—who will be his many dancing partners at the Costume Dance held at St. Peter's hall on Hallowe'en night, October 31st.

The dance is being sponsored by the Young Ladies and members of the Dramatic club of St. Peter's church. Their entertainment committee has secured Wightman's Orchestra to play, and the various sub-committees are successfully completing all the details in their divisions.

Five prizes will be awarded to those clad in the best and most original costumes.

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Beebe returned to their home here today from Walker, Minn., where they had been on a hunting and fishing trip for the last several weeks.

Mrs. H. J. Brogan was a Chicago visitor yesterday.

NEWSPAPERS AND GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

The country newspapers of the United States have had for many years a splendid opportunity to observe the workings of government competition with private business. The Federal government prints envelopes in large or small quantities with return addresses, at prices made possible only by its tremendous purchasing power, which no newspaper can possibly meet.

As a result, each year newspaper plants lose hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of business which would normally come to them were it not for price-cutting competition on the part of the government which they help support with their taxes.

A California publisher tells how the postmaster of his town wanted the post office raised to a higher class so he would receive a larger salary. To do this he went around to all the merchants and sold them a year's supply of stamped envelopes with their return addresses printed in the corner. In the words of the publisher, "This did not raise the efficiency of the local post office, the government lost money by paying more salary, and the local printer lost out not receiving these printing orders."

It is no wonder that a great majority of the country newspapers of the nation, having felt the bite of government competition, are irrevocably opposed to "politically-owned" and operated industries.

HIDDEN TAXES

It is estimated that nearly 25 per cent of the cost of the commodities we buy is represented by taxes. In many cases these "hidden taxes" are greater than the direct taxes we pay.

Those who lament the modern "high cost of living" may be sure that one of the main causes for it is the high cost of government.

TIME TO BUY

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce and a well known economist, recently predicted that by the end of October general business conditions would be improved and that by the end of the year levels should reach the 1923 standard. This forecast is supported by other industrial and governmental authorities.

This, then, is a good time for both business and individuals to buy the commodities they need. By doing so they will get full advantage of temporary low price levels and—of greater importance—will stimulate employment and industrial development, thereby benefiting the entire nation.

FIVE MILES BACK

"... Five miles back from our main state highways, who knows what conditions he will find?" asks Governor Roosevelt of New York. "There the highways are poor and hazardous, essentially in the same condition as in the time of our grandfathers."

This is not an exaggerated statement. In all parts of the country magnificent, fast trunk highways go from city to city, from state to state. But a few miles away from the city, attempting the impossible task of employing motor transportation for their commodities and themselves on roads that were unsatisfactory even in the horse-and-wagon days. As a result, for many months of the year an impassable barrier of mud stands between them and their markets and the outside world.

Here is one of the main causes of farm depression. In the past two or three decades there has been a revolution in industry one of whose major effects has been the motorization of transportation. Industrial prosperity has as one of its cornerstones quick, efficient and economical transportation of goods over paved highways.

We will not have agricultural prosperity until farming areas are given the same advantage—until, in short, they are provided with year-around, water-proof surfaced roads that are not seriously affected by weather. It is significant that many of our leading "farm relievers" are turning their attention to this problem.

MAKING A WILL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"You ought to make your will," I heard Brown say to Mason, "no one ought to neglect so important a matter as that."

They were talking over business matters, and the fact came out that Mason, generally considered a shrewd business man, had never made a will.

"Oh, I'm not so old, and I'm not going to die right away," he replied. "and I don't know what I might want to do with my property when I am older."

It is a curious point of view that many otherwise sensible people take that mention of making a will always suggests the thought of immediate and sudden death, just as if the idea of getting one's house insured would of itself make a fire more imminent. Every man, even if he owns only a yellow dog, should decide upon the proper disposal of his property by making a will. There is no formality about such an act.

Life is a very uncertain thing. For all we know, there is an automobile slipping around the corner ready to run over us while we are looking in the other direction. Accidents and disease give little or no warning to anyone of us, and the law left to its own devices does some very strange things to one's earthly possessions. The train I was on between Milwaukee and Chicago last week ran over a man and killed him. I wondered if he had a will.

Ferguson was considered a very good lawyer. He had made scores of wills for other people, and he had urged upon many others of his clients the wisdom of making a will. He was a married man with no children, and in very moderate circumstances. He had always intended that his wife, when he died, should have all that he possessed, as she, by all rights, should have had, for she had carried her half of the domestic load for twenty-five years or more. But Ferguson made no will; he just meant to do so. His wife received only a part of his estate, the rest going to relatives whom Ferguson had never seen, and for whom he did not care a penny.

As it was, the wife was left with a very meager and inadequate income, as her husband never intended should happen.

Whoever makes a will should go to a lawyer to have it done. A great many contingencies may arise which the inexperienced may not foresee. Sixty thousand dollars are tied up in the estate of a man I knew just because in his will he did not say the thing he intended to say. Even an ordinary lawyer would have told him that, and have saved his family infinite embarrassment.

"I'm too young," I hear a good many people say, "to make a will. What I would do now, twenty-five years from now I might not want to do at all." Well, it is quite possible to change a will and quite easy. If you don't make one somebody may have a lot of trouble in deciding just what to do with the thousand and one things which a man leaves behind him when he dies.

Bake in an oven of about 325 degrees, for 35 to 40 minutes, until a golden brown.

Mrs. Watson's Ginger-Snaps

The good old-fashioned ginger-snaps that snap and no nonsense. These are the kind which Mrs. A. G. Watson entered that tickled the judges palate so delightfully that she awarded them first prize.

1 cup New Orleans (dark) molasses

1 egg
1½ teaspoon soda as leavening agent.
1 heaping teaspoon ginger.
Mix with flour until stiff enough to roll and bake ten or fifteen minutes in quick oven. Spices may be added if necessary.

Mrs. Minto's Prize Filled Cookies

Filled Sugar Cookies

2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
2 eggs
5 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
¾ cup sour milk
Cream and butter, add beaten eggs and beat all together. Add sour milk, then gradually add flour. Roll and cut. Place jam, strawberry, blackberry, grape, raspberry, pineapple, etc., on one cookie, and place another on top. Bake in a hot oven for a few minutes until a light brown.

Oatmeal Cookies

Dash of salt
Raisins or nuts if desired

Coats Are Rich and Smart
This Fall and Winter

The coats this season are smarter and more luxuriously feminine than have been seen for many years. The newest styles feature low-placed back or side flares, side panels of fur bolero and Elton backs, new colors and cuffs. They are cut from the best fabrics—broadtail cloth, Cleora, Trinella, Rudee and others. And for those who delight in richness, Lady Fashion offers fine furs—caracul, lynx, skunk, kit fox, civet.

In harmony with this trend to smartness in the lengthened coats comes black—very popular this year. If you have the svelte figure that a black fitted coat such as this complements, you may consider that this is your lucky year—Fortune smiled, and created fashions just for you—(and others).

BE INFORMAL AND
CASUAL IN SERVING
EVENING CALLERS

When the neighbors call in the evening and after talking or playing cards for a while, it is very pleasant to gather around the source of warmth—furnace register, coal stove or fireplace, and enjoy refreshments together. Of course, a tea wagon is a convenience, if you possess one. It may be prepared in the kitchen and rolled into the living room. Or, if you'd rather, the card table may be covered with a lunch cloth, and sandwiches or cake and a beverage served from it.

The lap lunch is better than setting the table formally, because that is too suggestively of a meal. The hostess may sit at the table and pour the tea, while the host passes the plates and refreshments.

To serve too elaborately at between-meal occasions is poor taste. It is better form to serve merely a drink and something light to nibble on; such as tea and cakes; salad and cocoa; wafers and an ice; punch and wafers; sandwiches and lemonade.

Exemplary Environment Essential To
Correct StandingDirect Child's Intelligence
In Proper Channels for Future Welfare

Is heredity more important than environment? Those of you who are college graduates or even recent high school graduates can appreciate this question. In psychology or in sociology, this question is one of the most debated and hotly discussed of any. There is so much that can be said for both sides.

Many people will say that a child's behavior is highly influenced by his inheritance. Eminent students of eugenics tell us that "children inherit from their parents and grandparents, temper, consciousness, shyness, and ability, just as they inherit their stature, form and standing." Many parents like to believe this statement, but in most cases the child is only patterning after the parents, when he so behaves. People, as a rule, often fail to discriminate between heredity and environment.

The child does inherit physical characteristics and intelligence, but its characteristics of behavior are not inherited—they are acquired from the environment. However, he inherits certain material that under certain conditions will produce a particular characteristic; or, as we say, he inherits the tendency to a characteristic, such as temper.

Intelligence really is inherited and not created by the home, school, or college. Writers, through research, tell us that if parents are intelligent and have a high "I. Q." or intelligence quotient their children will possess this mental brilliance. But—If the brains of the parents are lacking—pity the child!

Yet there is such a thing as cultivating and directing what intelligence a child has. If his mental capacity is limited, give him things to learn gradually, and instead of cluttering up his mind with trivial knowledge, let him learn less, but more thoroughly, so that when he attains his manhood, he may make a success of the one thing which he chooses as his wage-earning occupation.

Do not force on a child the consciousness that he is "dumb." He will soon learn his limitations. Rather, let him take pride in something in which he can excel. Conversely, a brilliant child should be taught that his mental superiority is something to cherish and use for the benefit of others as well as himself, not an accomplishment to flaunt boastfully before his more unfortunate brothers.

Farm Bureau
NEWS NOTES

Election delayed until quota is completed.

A large group of women representing each township in Lake county met last Friday in a meeting at the Community hall, Grayslake, and voted to organize a Home Bureau. These women, representing communities and farms, launched a drive for four hundred members.

Miss Jane Black of the University of Illinois, Home Economics Department, will be in Lake county to assist in this movement.

The organization meeting was sponsored by the Lake County Farm Bureau under the leadership of H. C. Gilkerson, Farm Adviser.

Mrs. Kathryn Van Aken Burns, State Home Bureau Leader, attended the meeting held last Friday, and explained the County organization with the local units, through which the latest information in home economics will be brought to the Home Bureau members.

An organization committee composed of Mrs. Earl Kane, chairman; Mrs. L. V. Lusk, vice-chairman; Mrs. Elbert Elsbury, secretary; Mrs. E. King and Mrs. C. W. Wray, will take charge of the membership drive. As soon as four hundred members have been secured, a meeting of members will be called and permanent officers will be elected. Township organization directors will be selected by this committee to take charge of the organization of each township.

Community meetings will be held, at which time Miss Black will explain the work to women in the various communities. As soon as members have been signed and permanent officers elected a full time adviser will be employed to assist the women at their meetings and also with personal requests.

The Home Bureau will take over Girls' 4-H Club Work as soon as organized.

Home Bureaus have been organized in thirty-six other counties in the state and have very large memberships.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Toppo leaves his home to follow his canary, Lunny, who flies away. After an adventure with Mr. Frog, and with the Dewdrops, he captures the son of the Pillow-Queen, the enemy of his friend, the Cloud-Queen. The Pillow-Queen will promise anything, if only her son will be spared. Cloud-Queen promises to think the matter over. Continue—

When Toppo, the Cloud-Queen and their prisoner, the Pillow-Queen's son, whose name, he discovered, was Egepli reached the door of the palace, it was immediately flung open by the Pillows who bowed to the floor, and looked terrified. They walked through many long corridors, and arrived at length before the door of a room, which was locked. The Queen beckoned to one of the Pillows to go and fetch her the key.

He trembled before her and said, "I dare not. It is forbidden."

The Queen turned pale, and exclaimed in a low, wrathful tone, "Who forbade you?"

"The great Pillow-Queen," he answered.

The Cloud-Queen was scornful. "She is no longer your queen. Go and fetch it this instant."

As the Pillow turned away hesitantly, and walked slowly away, the Queen sighed. "I suppose that it will take him an eternity to get it."

They sat down to wait. Toppo said: "What are you going to tell the Pillow-Queen and her advisers tomorrow?"

"That depends," the Cloud-Queen answered thoughtfully. "If I tell you this, you must be very sure to keep it a secret."

"I won't tell," promised Toppo, "but what about Egepli?"

"He doesn't count," the Queen replied, "he couldn't understand, and if he did, we could kill him."

"But if we did that," Toppo objected,

ed, "the Pillows could take us prisoners again."

"He can't understand this way of telling you. See—"and the Queen unclasped a jewel from her robe and began drawing it slowly through the air. Toppo was amazed to hear a tiny voice which seemed to sing in his heart. It couldn't be heard by anyone but himself. "Can you understand?" the little voice whispered.

Toppo nodded delightedly. "Now you can tell me the secret."

The voice continued its little story. "To allow you to understand better, I want you to know why I have not been captured by some enemy many years ago, since my people, the dewdrops, the mist, the little clouds, the frost, snow, rain, sleet, and even those treacherous people, the ugly-tempered fogs, have no strength except at night. Behind this locked door there is a magic pool. Every day, it was my custom to enter this room, and gaze into the pool. The pool always foretold if an enemy was about to invade my country or make a surprise attack. When I read the signs, I sent my best warriors, the sleet, snow and fog into the land of the enemy, at night, so that the leader might be taken and forced to stop attack. One day, a few months ago, I was called to make a journey to the land of Further Knowledge. I spend a brief time there every year, to learn more ways to help my people. I left one of my trusted maidens to watch at the side of the pool, but she fell asleep, and when the warning was flashed into the water, no one observed it. When I returned to my country, I was taken a prisoner, and locked in that room. No one of my people was ever allowed by the pool, and my enemies, the Pillows, took possession."

Here the Queen paused, thinking of her people. (Continued next week.)

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 10.

The Golden Text was, "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; and he is the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world" (1 John 2:1, 2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it. If ye love me, keep my commandments" (John 14:13-15).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him; but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake to His likeness" (p. 4).

Gang Leader Faces Vag, Gun Charges In Chicago Court

of venue declaring that Judge Lyle was prejudiced. The motion was to be heard at 5 o'clock today.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith declared that within the next two days he would get an injunction against the Elizabeth Cassidy place at Bluff Lake, where Moran was arrested.

Cassidy's, also the scene of the mysterious murder of Mickey Smith, who was found dead there on the morning of January 8 1928, by telephone employees, has long been known as a hangout for alleged gangsters.

"I don't think that she will have the place much longer as there is a foreclosure pending, but I intend to close it as I did before," Attorney Smith declared.

One of the men wanted as badly as Moran was Leo Mongovern it was learned through the prosecutor's office. When Moran was seen to enter the place it was felt certain by Constable George Stried, who made the arrest, that Mongovern would be found.

"He has been staying at Camp Lake, Wis., just over the state line, but two or three times he has been seen in the county," Col. Smith declared.

Defies Cops, Courts

"Chicago is my home, and I do not intend to be run out by cops or courts," Moran is said to have defiantly asserted when arraigned before Judge Lyle.

He defied police to connect him with the killing of Lingle when they questioned him Wednesday and declared himself confident that the "vag rap" would not be successful.

Moran's police record, dating back over twenty years, was to form part of the evidence to be submitted against him. Sept. 17, 1910, he was sent to Joliet for burglary, was paroled two years later and Oct. 30, 1913, was again convicted on a similar charge and sent to the penitentiary. As on his first conviction however, he again managed to obtain a parole June 26, 1917. May 24, 1918, he was returned on still another conviction, this time for robbery.

His name in the last few years has

CHANNEL LAKE COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

The wintry weather of the last week-end brought to an end all golf activities at the Channel Lake Country Club, and the grounds, although beautiful to look at, presented a most lonesome appearance, as during the morning hours, at least, the Sunday crowd was conspicuous by its absence. A few of the members motored out from the city, but a roaring grate fire was much more alluring than a game of golf.

A group of the women members of the club met at Mrs. Frank Hardcastle's on Channel Lake on Tuesday to participate in an informal, get-together luncheon, and a little game of "Bridge."

Mrs. J. N. Tankersley and Mrs.

been linked with nearly all of the principal killings that marked the war between the north side gang and the Capone mob.

Claims Income From Business
In support of his claim that he should not be arrested on a vagrancy charge, Moran claims that he is in a legitimate business, and obtains his money through this business.

When questioned as to his means of income, he claims that he receives a salary of $5,200 per year as vice-president of the Central Cleaners and Dyers company, and that dividends from the business swell his income to $25,000.

"They can't yag me," he said.

Whitmore, two members of our club, left Monday morning on a motor trip to Florida. They left Chicago at 8:00 a. m., and reached Louisville the same day at 5:00 p. m. Nothing slow about the ladies in this club.

Mr. Tankersley plans to visit his old home town, Glenadeau, Mo., during the current week, and renew old friends and places.

CASTLES IN THE AIR

And A Spanish Galleon

In the sixteenth century men had their dreams—their castles in the air—just as we of today. But there was no well-defined path to wealth. The Merchant of Venice had to borrow of a rapacious Shylock and trust to the uncertain destiny of a medieval trading-ship. :: Sometimes there were Spanish galleons that came laden with the treasure of the Incas. But more often—death, failure.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT

Contract or Contract Bridge

Summary of Official Laws Adopted September 15, 1927.

Copyright, 1928, by The U. S. Playing Card Co., Cincinnati, O., U. S. A.
Published by permission of The Whist Club, New York

Now that a standard code of laws for Contract Bridge has been approved and adopted by The Whist Club of New York, the Knickerbocker Whist Club, the Racquet and Tennis Club of New York, The Cavendish Club of New York, and the American Whist League, it is certain that these laws will be adhered to by informed players. In short, the new laws are the same as those governing Auction Bridge, except in the scoring, for which these are the authorized rules (summarized):

TRICK VALUES

The suits are valued as follows: No Trump 35; Spades 30; Hearts 30; Diamonds 20; Clubs 20. This is called the Vanderbilt count, after its originator, Harold S. Vanderbilt. In the bidding, however, the suits rank the same as in Auction; that is, Diamonds take precedence over Clubs, and Spades over Hearts.

HONORS

Honors are scored only when held four or five in one hand. In a suit bid 4 honors in one hand count 100 points in the honor-score; 5 in one hand count 150. In No Trump, 4 Aces in one hand count 150.

GAMES

Game is 100 trick points. Thus each suit requires the same number of tricks for game as in Auction Bridge. The only difference is that the Diamond suit is demoted to an equality with the Club suit as a game score from an advanced score. For example, the scoring of three Diamonds, 21 points, at Auction Bridge, puts a player in position to go game on the next deal by making only one trick at Spades or No Trump, whereas two additional tricks are required for game after scoring three Clubs (18 points). In Contract, two additional tricks in any suit or No Trump are also required to go game in Diamonds after scoring three tricks in that suit (60 points).

Only tricks bid and made are scored below the line on game. If a Declarer bid one Spade and make four, his score toward game would be only 30. Tricks over contract, however, are awarded a premium (bonus) in the honor column. Tricks under contract are penalized.

RUBBERS

Rubber, as in Auction Bridge, consists of two games won by the same side. The winners of the first game of a rubber (either side) score no premium, as in Auction Bridge. The winners of the second game of a rubber (two-game rubber only) score a premium of 700 points. The winners of the last game of a three-game rubber score a premium of 500 points. Thus for the first time a difference is recognized and rewarded between a pair winning a rubber in two games and a pair winning a rubber in three games.

VULNERABLE

After a side wins one game it becomes "vulnerable", and from then on is subject to much greater penalties for failure to make its bid. These penalties, however, are offset by greater premiums for winning. When both sides have won a game both become "vulnerable", and from then on the rubber game is an exciting battle.

SLAMS

No premium is scored for any Slam made when it has not been bid. When bid and made, if Declarer is Not Vulnerable, a Little Slam scores 500 points in the honor-score; if Declarer is Vulnerable, Little Slam bid and made scores 750 points. Grand Slam, bid and made, Declarer Not Vulnerable, scores 1000 points. With Declarer Vulnerable, Grand Slam wins 1500 points. Doubling and redoubling do not alter Slam premiums.

CONTRACT PREMIUMS and PENALTIES

Declarer scores no premium for making an undoubled contract. He scores below the line only the number of tricks bid; but for each trick he makes over contract he scores 50 points in the honor-score, whether or not he is Vulnerable. If adversaries set the Declarer, they score 50 points premium for each undertrick if Declarer is Not Vulnerable. If Declarer is Vulnerable, the first undertrick scores 100 points premium for adversaries; each subsequent undertrick, 200 points.

DOUBLES

Doubling doubles the trick values scored below the line.

For making a doubled contract, Declarer wins a premium of 50 points if he is Not Vulnerable, and 100 points for each trick over contract. If Vulnerable, these scores are 100 and 200 points, respectively.

For undertricks on a doubled contract, the adversaries score as follows: If Declarer is Not Vulnerable, 100 points per trick for first two tricks; 200 points per trick for third and fourth tricks; 400 points per trick for subsequent tricks. If Declarer is Vulnerable, adversaries score 200 points for first undertrick; 400 points per trick for subsequent tricks.

REDOUBLES

Redoubling doubles the doubled trick values, premiums and penalties. Doubling and redoubling do not affect the premiums for games, Slams and honors, or the penalty points for second and subsequent revoke.

REVOKE PENALTIES

The revoke penalty for either side is the loss of two tricks for any player's first revoke. 100 points additional penalty for each subsequent revoke.

These brief rules will give the reader some idea of the game. To be successful in Contract, one's hand must be intelligently read and understood. Ultra-conservatism is penalized as severely as rashness. The partner must understand the principle of expected help and better than expected help. It is important to raise a partner's bid as high as one's hand justifies at the first opportunity, whether or not intervening player has bid, as one scores toward game only the tricks bid.

Lack of opposition is not a signal for demand for keen reading of the cards. If game is possible it must be bid. The incentive for game contract is the large premium for rubber, especially if made in two games.

As a rule, a take-out from weakness should be avoided, as it offers little chance for game, and may be misread by partner.

The double is very important in contract and much used. It is interesting to note that this factor causes what would be a very poor and uninteresting hand in Auction Bridge to assume much more value and interest in Contract. Every hand is bid to the utmost, often slightly overbid, placing too much trust in luck in the hope of winning a big premium. Thus a poor hand often is able to take an unexpected trick and set the opponents.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Renewing a childhood attachment, Ernestine Briceland, of a wealthy Chicago family, is tremendously attracted by Will Todd, youthful newspaper artist, son of a not particularly well-to-do carpenter. Her sister Lillian, more of the conventional type, and aware of the attitude their father would take toward her daughter's marriage to an impecunious youth, urges Ernestine to end the affair, but the latter, capable of a passionate attachment, and realizing that in Will Todd she has found her affinity, refuses.

CHAPTER II—The love-making progresses swiftly, and finally, largely because of Ernestine's urging, they make a "runaway" marriage. Briceland is infuriated but helpless, Ernestine being of age, and after a stormy scene the girl, with her husband, leaves her parents' home. Loring Hamilton, wealthy young lawyer, long Lillian's suitor, wins her consent to be his wife.

CHAPTER III—The bridegroom is spent at Will's home, and next day they begin their married life in a single room in a humble neighborhood. Ernestine realizes the difference her marriage has made in her social sphere, but, secure in her love, faces the future bravely.

With a gesture indescribably complacent, he held up his hand for silence and got it instantly. Standing so, his chest pushed out like a pouter pigeon's, his body rocking back on his heels, his napkin in his hand, which he flourished from time to time, he began to sing.

It was Siegfried's cry of joy, when he passed through the flames and found the sleeping Brunnhilde. Ernestine recognized it, as she recognized the man. He was Mostane, one of the world's greatest tenors. And she had criticized his manner! But now, all else was swept away, and she lived only through her ears, on which fell each perfect note. She knew in delightful anticipation what his golden voice would do next, and her heart soared with his voice.

He stopped abruptly, rocked a moment on his heels and then gently, softly, poignantly he sang without accompaniment:

Still wie die Nacht
Tief wie das Meer
So dahn Liebes sein.

The tears rained down Ernestine's cheeks. He sat down in a storm of excited applause. Ernestine could not stop crying. She leaned on Will's shoulder, for he came and sat beside her and put his arm about her. When at last she could breathe steadily she rose and went around the table to Mostane and took his fat face in her two hands and kissed him.

There was a cheer from all the tables, and Will gleamed at her with approval for her spontaneity.

"Nothing else was adequate," declared Mr. Poole.

The hours passed in a trance. The patronage in the dining room changed, grew noisier, more turbulent. Girls came and went on the stage, and danced and sang, and twinkled pretty feet, and flicked bare knees. It was all an unreal blending of sight and sound and color, and Ernestine's heart was far away, in some lonely space with Will. Her being still trembled with that last swelling note. Dimly in her mind she felt an awakening of artistic comprehension, a spiritual understanding of the strength and power of perfect performance. Will had latent in him some such force, but it was far from impulses to such dashed authority. Her thought was not that clear, but groping.

It was time to go home, and Ernestine wanted Will to take her away from the others. But she saw that Mr. Poole was not himself at all any longer. Will always took him home, from the office, from such affairs as this, to his flat. Ernestine felt that she could not bear to be parted from Will tonight.

She became conscious of a man standing behind her, a little to one side, regarding her gravely, quietly. She glanced up at him but did not know him. He was a huge man, with a great dark head and clear dark skin. He wore a neck suit, and his narrow face glittered with a ruby of enormous size, set in a gold circle. On one of his big brown hands, which were covered with coarse black hair, was another such gem. Ernestine remembered with a feeling of faintness all the wild stories she had heard about Pastano's place being so disorderly. Will, at least, was sober, as he always was.

Mr. Poole now saw the stranger, greeted him and called him to the table.

"And this is Mrs. Todd, my young friend's wife. You know Will, of course, and the others. Ernestine, this is Ruby Pastano, jewel merchant, ward boss, and the owner of this dive. A bad man—a terrible man. Shako hands with him."

Mr. Poole was enjoying himself and looked up at Pastano with glee. Mr. Pastano did not smile. He still fixed on Ernestine that queer solemn look. He bowed above her.

"Sit down, Ruby, sit down!" commanded Mr. Poole thickly, and motioned for a waiter to bring a chair, which was produced instantly.

Mr. Pastano sat down between Mr. Poole and Ernestine, and she felt his gravity spreading about the table, so that all were a little quieted.

"This is my birthday," Ernestine explained graciously. "I am twenty-one years old today, and Mr. Poole was kind enough to have a party for me. Now that you have come, it is more charming."

"Your voice—" he said, his own tone soft and silky. "Where are you born?" She told him, naively, the address of her mother's house.

"But you have lived in the country?"

"Oh, yes, always, in the summer. My Grandmother Langley had a home in Indiana where my father's quarries are. Why do you ask?"

"Never mind me. Tell me of yourself. This house in the country, and your home on Sheridan road is a long way from here."

Ernestine understood his idea; but she refused to be drawn into such a complicated conversation.

"It is only a few miles," she replied, and he gave an impatient exclamation.

"It is a thousand miles, and a hundred years at least," he said. "Tell me about your mother's house."

Ernestine thought about it.

"Do you know anything about American period furniture, Mr. Pastano? There is a Duncan Phyfe table, and pierced brass fire-fender, in the living room; four-poster beds upstairs, with hooked rugs and woven counterpanes—all of the things have come into the family honestly, through natural possession, and not from auction rooms. But, of course, you know."

She smiled at him. Her long hands lay together in the immaculate perfection of her yellow chiffon lap. Her voice was low, only for his ears, and though she thought him very strange, she gave him her gravest, youngest courtesy.

"I know nothing about America, at all, it seems."

"It's just the house—I'll take you to see it some day, if you like, although mamma doesn't like people to consider it a museum, as some experts do. Of course, I don't live there since my marriage. We live in a rooming house on Erie street, and it just shows that furniture and things do not mean so much, for I am happier now than I was."

"You have left this house of your mother, with pierced brass from your own ancestors, to live in Erie street?" She nodded and smiled again, and her eyes pleaded for his understanding.

He shook his head sadly. He heaved a vast sigh.

"No, I do not understand America. Continually I am full of new astonishment. Women are somewhat the same the world around—but American men are outside my comprehension."

"You have been successful here," she reminded him, but he brushed her comment aside, pursuing his own thought aloud.

"No, I do not understand. If my son is penniless; if he is an artist starving in a garret; and the great, the incredible good fortune come to him that he shall marry a girl of noble birth, who has a quiet voice, and gentle still hands, and a brow where breeding shows its lovely smile—if my son have the grace and the smile of fortune to marry such a girl, and he bring her to a place like this—" He looked about him with scorn.

"If he bring his wife to this brothel—this sink—I take a knife in my own hand and stab him through the heart. You must go away from here instantly—now! There is activity in this room that pollutes the very air. You will strangle in it!"

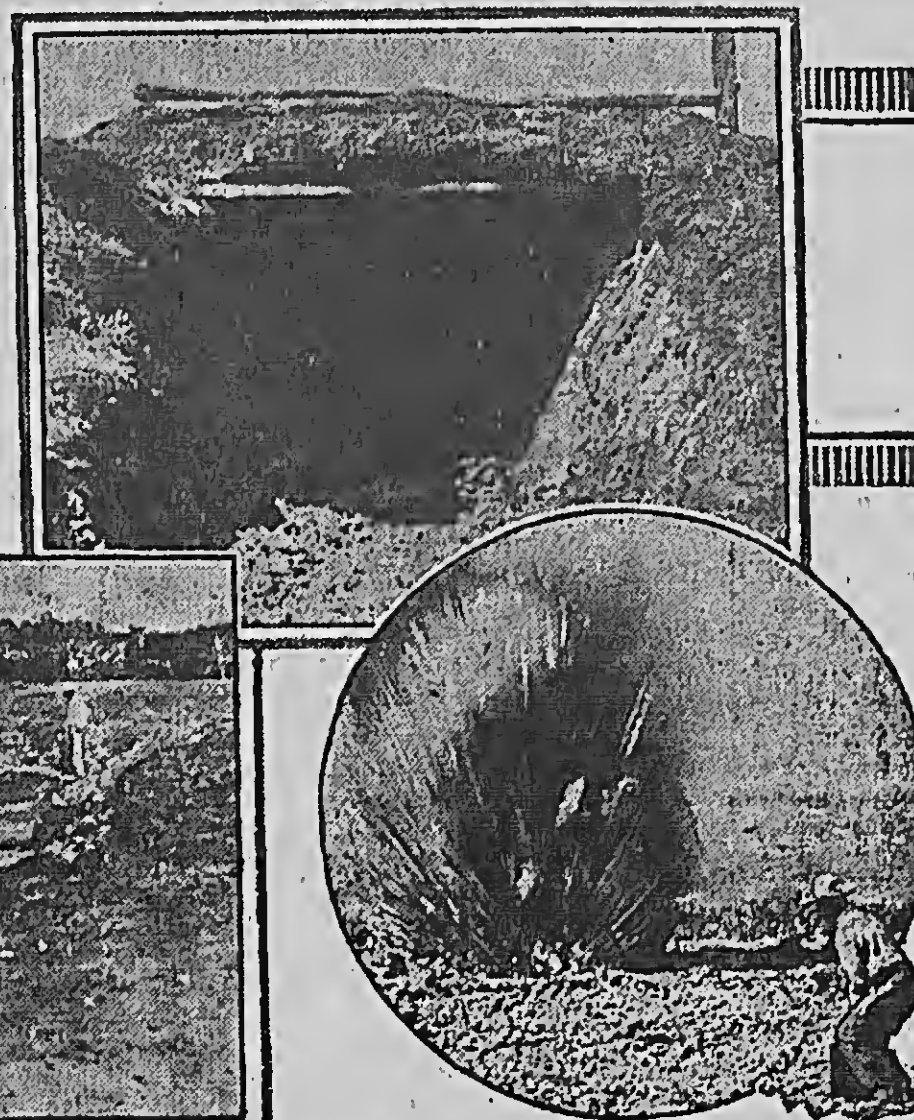

Ernestine's heart stopped beating in her astonishment. She felt that she had been unheavily affronted, and she rose and stood pale with anger. Mr. Pastano rose and stood

FARMERS USE DYNAMITE TO HELP FIGHT DROUGHT EFFECTS

A FORM of trench warfare is being waged by farmers in many states to fight the effects of the long drought.

Dynamite is being used to shatter the soil and permit its easy removal with teams and all scrapers in the construction of trench silos. The explosive is also being employed to excavate water holes or earth tanks for the conservation of all available water.

Hastily made trench silos are being filled with ensilage salvaged from corn, damaged by lack of water and the intense heat of August, and such forage as is adaptable for use in this kind of cattle feed. In some cases clover is being mixed with chopped corn to increase the amount of moisture.

These emergency silos consist of trenches in the earth. When filled, the ensilage is covered with a layer of cut straw or chaff and a roof of about two feet of straw. Poles are used to support the roof. Sometimes woven wire is stretched between beams to add strength.

The trenches are usually of a width of 12 to 14 feet at the top and slope to a bottom width of eight to ten feet at a depth of eight to ten feet. They vary in length from 25 feet to 60 feet or more. The length is determined by the number of cattle to be fed.

Explosives experts of the Du Pont Agricultural Extension Section, Wilmington, Delaware, are cooperating with county agricultural agents, agricultural engineers and others in demonstrating to farmers the uses of a low-cost, farm explosive for blasting trench silos.

Larry F. Livingston, head of the Du Pont Agricultural staff, advises farmers who are facing a feed shortage, to immediately get in touch with their county agents or state colleges relative to construction of emergency silos. Based on a survey of conditions, Mr. Livingston's belief is that trench silos will be especially beneficial to dairymen, cattle raisers and farmers in general in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky and Louisiana.

Trench silos as means of drought relief are being advocated by the Missouri College of Agriculture and some other agricultural institutions. Their construction and operation are described in extension circulars prepared by the Colorado State College of Agriculture, the North Dakota Agricultural College, the University of Minnesota and the University of Missouri.

In many localities water holes or earth tanks are being excavated with ditching dynamite for the purpose of storing water for dairy herds, beef cattle, sheep, hogs and horses. Where wells have gone dry and may remain so for a prolonged period, these reservoirs are being used to catch the runoff of rain or to impound water from springs and small streams.

Special methods of blasting to save time and reduce costs have been developed by Du Pont agricultural engineers. As a result, one afternoon's work with explosives does more than a gang of men with teams and scrapers can do in a week or longer.

Although dynamite has long been used in making drainage ditches and for flood control, the explosive is now finding its first uses in an agricultural crisis caused by an exceptional drought.

before her, and met with approval the blaze of her eyes. A waiter appeared instantly with her coat, and he took it and wrapped it about her with immense dignity.

"So, go, princess!" he exclaimed, and bowed a little, and looked at her again, his own eyes alight. "You have only my good wishes. It is unfortunate I must confess the little to a place unfit for you, but this place was not made for you. The unfit, the broken, the abnormal must have their haunts, and they are not for others. Some day, perhaps, it will be my fortune that we shall be friends."

Every one was staring at them. Will had risen and stood beside her, smiling uncertainly, not knowing at all what was going forward.

"I want to go home," Ernestine said to him lightly.

"Tommy will take you," Will answered easily. "I have to take Mr. Poole to his flat."

Ernestine felt herself beginning to tremble with the indignities heaped upon her. She had been so in love, so exposed, that it all hurt her incredibly. She looked about her uncertainly, then laughed and answered Will with composure.

"I don't believe I'll have to depend on Tommy. Here are Lillian and Loring. They'll take me home."

Will swung about in astonishment, and there, indeed, coming through the room anxiously, were Lillian and her lover. Ernestine stood smiling malignantly, as they came forward.

"Ernestine," exclaimed Lillian, when she was near enough, "I wanted to see you. We went to Mrs. Bennett's, but the maid said you were here, so we followed you. Can you come with us?"

"I was just going," answered Ernestine. "But wait and meet our friends. This is my sister, Miss Briceland, Mrs. Wiston, and Mr. Poole, Lillian, and Monsieur Mostane, and Mr. Wiston of the Sun, and Mr. Underwood, and Mr. Hayward—and this is Mr. Pastano, who owns this charming place. And this is Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. Wiston—"

The men had risen and were fumbling over the acknowledgments of the introductions. Ernestine seemed the most composed person present, and no one could have guessed that her knees were trembling.

"We wanted to get on, if you and Will can come with us," said Loring, while Mr. Pastano stood and regarded the newcomers evenly.

"I'll come with you, but Will has an engagement before he returns home. Goodby, Mr. Poole. Thank you for the evening."

She gave her hand to her host, and he put his own hand on her shoulder to steady himself. Loring winced and recoiled at this contact, but Ernestine was now in complete command of herself and smiled steadily. Mr. Poole's

The Marsh school P. T. A. association will hold a School Fair Thursday evening, October 30, at the school house. Work of the pupils and 4-H club work will be on exhibit. The parents will also furnish an exhibit from their farm homes. Admission is free, but a charge will be made for the lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stonebraker have returned from their trip to Poterfield, Wis., where they visited the Lynn Everett family and also friends in Iron Mountain, Michigan. They all enjoyed a picnic dinner with Rev. and Mrs. Frankson from Marquette, Wis., who were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gethen, along the banks of Thunder River. The Gethens also returned home Thursday night.

The L. A. S. supper and sale has been postponed indefinitely.

The Wesley Chapel annual chicken supper was well attended; proceeds—$100.

heavy face, his confusion, did not dismay her. She made him an affectionate good night, then "turned to the others—"

"Good night, all of you. I'm sorry to run away, from my own party, but somebody must start. If you will excuse me— Good night, Will. I'll see you later."

She gave Will a luminous look. He did not answer but stared at her silently, and she turned, sweeping her wrap about her, carrying herself like a queen of the realm, and went off, Loring's black bulk between the sisters, his face dark with forebodings.

Well-Nourished by Milk

EVERYWHERE we pass the children with their school books! And it comes to us, with a little shock, that summer is almost gone—that the winter-long round of studies is beginning all over again.

For the mothers, too, is homes from which these children come, school days make a decided difference. The family schedule now is regulated by the classroom clock. And many a mother finds that the lunch hour is the most trying time of the entire day.

Particularly annoying is the problem of planning dishes that include generous quantities of milk. Plenty of milk must be in the diet of every growing child, yet many boys and girls quickly tire of drinking it; and mother must use strategy to get this food necessity in the daily menu.

Listed below are a number of recipes and menu suggestions that should prove helpful to any mother who must face the school lunch problem. Try them, and see how delightfully they will serve to keep milk's healthy glow in the children's faces.

Season with salt and pepper, and serve on slices of hot toast or biscuit.

NOTESSQUAD PRACTICES
WITH FRESH ENERGY
AFTER DEFEAT FRI.Mrs. Richey and Beatrice
Hawkins Attend Home-
Making Conference

Competition may be the spice of life, but when you're just not in the race, it rather kills. While maxims are in order, here's another—"While there's life, there's hope." Coach Reed and his boys are firm adherents to this slogan, and are sticking to their practice hours with renewed determination.

The St. Mary's team of Woodstock showed the boys that they were better than the locals by two touchdowns in a practice game held Friday. This, of course, may mean nothing when Antioch and Libertyville meet for their annual Armistice day game on Nov. 11, but nevertheless it doesn't change the score of that game. Both of St. Mary's touchdowns were made through intercepted passes, one occurring in the first quarter, the other in the third. Antioch failed to score.

The team was scheduled to play Palatine this week, but Palatine has cancelled all their games. However, the boys are taking on several practice games this week and next. They were defeated last night at Dundee by a score of 27-6. On the face of it, this looks bad, but it really is encouraging, for Dundee trimmed Arlington Heights by a score of 66-0. Arlington Heights in their game with Antioch was only able to nose out the locals by one point, 12-11.

Antioch's touchdown was scored last night by Art Jenrich who plunged over the line after Kling had carried the ball 75 yards to within a few yards of the goal line.

Practice game will probably be arranged with Winnetka and the Waukegan Freshman during the next few days.

Mrs. Ruby Richey, instructor of Domestic Science at the high school, and Miss Beatrice Hawkins, a student in this department, left Wednesday evening to attend the ninth annual All-State Vocational Home-Making Conference of Smith-Hughes teachers at Broadview Hotel, East St. Louis, on Thursday and Friday. Beatrice was selected as a delegate to represent the Antioch Home Economics club for her scholastic standing and her work in this department. She will attend the special sessions planned for the Student club, and the dinner on Friday evening served by the Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Richey was named chairman of the Teachers' club for the sessions of this group. She will attend the ninth All-State Vocational Home-Economics Association Conference held Friday and Saturday.
